

We're here to tell your story. The emotional experience of photojournalism focuses on candid moments, rather than staging, and is achieved through anticipation and use of contrast and composition. In addition to outdoor engagement sessions, I also enjoy talking to couples about bringing their creative vision to life in the studio.

Your photos are individually edited and delivered print-ready through a private online gallery. The online gallery can be shared with guests, who will have the option to download free small files or to purchase high-res files for social media.

Engagement portrait sessions are available within LA county. Appointments must be made at least four weeks in advance for all portrait sessions.

Packages are named in honor of film photography, a tradition and hobby that I still very much enjoy.
