SAY HELLO TO FOREVER

I live for love stories. Every time I have to turn down a client because I'm already booked...I'm heartbroken.

A few years ago I started working with my friend Chelsea as my second shooter for video. We clicked instantly and she's so talented at capturing beautiful footage on wedding days, plus it's her favorite part.

She adapted to my filming style and aesthetic effortlessly, and I've trusted her by my side now for countless weddings. When a prospective client inquired this year and I was already booked...she asked if Chelsea could film, and I could still edit...sparking an idea in me to cure that heartbreak of having to say NO to a client who loves my style.

The results of her footage paired with my editing have been wonderful. After the day, I still get to indulge in one of my favorite parts of the video process: editing. This is where a lot of the magic happens, putting together all the clips, to make a beautiful final video that tells the story of your day in an emotional and authentic way that you'll treasure forever.

"I love Amy so much, when I saw her work and aesthetic online I knew she had to be the one to capture our day.

She was professional and unobtrusive but also felt immediately like a good friend who was a part of the festivities. She had a special way of catching little moments that were really personal to us where I found myself asking later "how did she notice that?", because I don't remember a camera being around at all. She managed to get all the little details I didn't even know I wanted. It is a cliché, but your wedding day goes by in a flash and working with Amy was so worth the investment of a video that feels like us. It's because she took the time to get to know us and stay close for the special moments. When we received the video, it felt like we were right back on our wedding day. The way Amy captures everything is so lovely and personal, I'm grateful for her wonderful eye on the day we decided on forever and will cherish her work."

"I would highly recommend Chelsea! She was such a wonderful person to work with.

The day of our wedding she went above and beyond to make sure everything that we had asked for was captured. She even threw in some things that I didn't ask for and it turned out AMAZING! We were so lucky to have her and her work is truly an art. We absolutely loved our video and we loved working with Chelsea!"
