Get to know me

The people I have met, the friendships I have made, and the images I am grateful to have captured are what inspire me to create. I stumbled into wedding photography in my early twenties second-shooting for talented photographers. What drew me in, was being a part of each amazing love story. I've loved getting to know each of the couples I've met and watching their stories unfold right before my eyes. Since I can tell a much better story with my photos when I feel familiar with whom I'm photographing, I just want to hang out! I want to capture the pure intimacy, real laughter and the true love that fills their amazing day! Those are the images I want my clients to have and cherish during their forever together.

My Style

I like to see myself as a storyteller. I try to approach each wedding with a documentary style. I photograph things as they are. When you look back at your photos, for the first time or the hundredth time, you will be flooded with the moving memories of how things were and are. I photograph everything from the big picture down to the smallest details. The look on the groom's face when he sees his future wife walking towards him, your maid of honor laughing as she is giving her toast, and the smallest member of your family asleep on grandma during the reception.

During portraits on your wedding day and engagement session, expect to laugh and play as well as engaging in quiet and intimate moments with each other. It's not in my character/style/etc. to put you in front of the camera and tell you to "say cheese". Instead, I want you to relax, focus on your future spouse, and I will take care of the rest/I will do the rest.

Because love is an adventure

A romantic elopement scene featuring a bride and groom in a vast, golden field at sunset. The groom, in a dark tuxedo and bow tie, is smiling and holding the bride's hand. The bride, in a white lace wedding dress, is seen from behind, her dress flowing in the breeze. The background shows rolling hills and mountains under a warm, golden sky. A white rectangular frame is overlaid on the image, containing the text.
