FAQ

Do you offer tastings?

Yes. However, we currently only offer tastings for weddings after a deposit has been made. In the case you're not satisfied after the tasting, you will have 24 hours to request a full refund.

What happens to our deposit if we need to cancel our event?

We understand that things can happen not in our control. We will never ask you for a reason, or more importantly take your money. All payments made leading up to an event will be credited in full towards a future agreed upon date.

Do you have liability insurance?

Yes, we are fully insured and will provide a Certificate of Insurance upon request.

Can we customize our own menu or is it fixed?

You can absolutely customize your own menu. Based on the package choice you go with; we will tell you what is and isn't included. Final menu selections can be submitted up to two weeks prior to your event date.

Is the food cooked at your location and then transported, or do you cook onsite?

Certain food items will not travel well. In most cases, especially weddings, items are cooked right on premise to ensure freshness and quality. If there is no cooking permitted on premise, we will help you choose menu items that work best.

Our wedding venue doesn't have a kitchen, would that be an issue?

We have our own portable equipment for all events and don't charge anything additional to bring them. We can bring anything from ovens to our own portable sinks!

Do you charge an additional fee for warming equipment or chafing dishes?

Absolutely not!

How much extra does it cost to add chinaware for our wedding instead of plastic?

$0.

Chinaware & silverware is automatically included for all weddings.

Please Note

Food and labor cost has been increasing more than we've ever seen. Our prices are subject to change at anytime without notice, UNLESS a deposit has been made. We've noticed that when booking approximately one year out, couples are saving thousands of dollars.
