

With an MFA from Stanford University, my expertise lies in the art of documentary filmmaking. I approach each wedding as a canvas, capturing its essence through the interplay of energy, emotion, and intricate details that define your day and your story.

What sets me apart is my affinity for niche weddings that deviate from the mainstream, that embody an offbeat spirit, or embrace the unconventional.

Because of my preferred filming style, I offer a single wedding video package. You book me and I dedicate all my creative focus to crafting a cinematic masterpiece that tells the story of your big day. I enjoy connecting with each of my clients, which allows me to authentically portray your story through my lens.

FAQS

How did you get started filming weddings?

I have one single regret from own wedding--we didn't have a videographer! I'm in the business because I don't want others to make the same mistake I did. Your day deserves to be captured artistically.

What do you consider your style to be?

My mantra is simple: be in the right place at the right moment. It requires me to be in the flow of the day in order to capture the unfolding story. I embed myself so my presence blends into your special day without distractions from the camera. The result is a style that is minimal, meaningful, and memorable.

How long are your wedding films?

A typical wedding film length varies between 8-12 minutes. In my experience, my clients have been very pleased with this length as it captures the day in a cinematic and succinct style. In addition to the wedding film, I also deliver videos of the ceremony and toasts.

When will I receive my videos?

I'm flexible during the editing process, so don't hesitate to suggest or ask for changes. You will receive the first cut of your wedding videos three months after the wedding date. From there, we go through two rounds of revisions until we get the videos how you like it.

Which songs do you use for the videos?

I ask my clients for 3-4 song suggestions to help me match the style of video you want. Some like classically romantic, others prefer rustic, and some want something left of center.

Who films the weddings?

When you book, you're getting me, Dane. I make it a point to get to know all of my clients personally so I can best capture their day.

How do I book?

I require a signed contract and a $1200 deposit to book. Final payment is due by the day of the wedding.

What does Dansker mean?

Dansker means "Dane" in Danish. I'm Danish-American and my Danish mother named me Dane. It's highly ironic and you should chuckle a little bit ;)
