

A woman in a white wedding dress with a lace back is seen from behind, standing in a lush green field. The sun is setting in the background, creating a warm, golden glow over the landscape. The field is filled with tall grass, and there are trees and hills in the distance.

Enduring Memories in a Disposable World.

The best moments aren't manipulated into perfection, they happen when you're living in the moment. It's the beautiful narrative of your wedding day that you'll cherish for years, not just pictures of pretty things you bought.

I offer just enough strategic direction to create beautiful, timeless imagery while providing space for candid moments and authentic emotions to shine through, so you'll hold on to real, meaningful memories, not just pretty pictures.

About Stephen

My grandfather first inspired my love for photography. From learning how to process photos in his darkroom to seeing him build “cracker box” cameras by reusing oatmeal canisters and cardboard boxes, I was fascinated by the process.

While in college, I began to accept wedding commissions. And while my skills have developed extensively in the last 12 years/ 70+ weddings, I still love chasing the thrill of creating that “magic” in my images that transcend the moment and live on as a testament to what was special about that moment, in that place.
