

CLIENT LOVE

"Where to even begin?! Robert was so professional and absolutely hilarious. We loved not only his style and quickness with the camera and capturing every moment, but his quick wit, too! It was beyond hot and humid on the day of our wedding and he was there every step of the way, toughing out the heat with us to truly catch some amazing shots. He even carried some towels for my husband to wipe the sweat off with. How sweet is that!? We cannot recommend him enough! Thank you for everything!!!"

ENGAGEMENT

expert advice for a carefree engagement session

O1 Wear something you're comfortable in

You've probably read some form of this tip before, but it really is the most important thing. If you choose clothes that are too tight or clingy, you'll potentially spend your whole session picking at them or covering yourself up. If you choose something you've never worn before, you'll be worried about how you look in it or may discover it's actually terribly uncomfortable, which can come across in your photos.

02 Consider professional hair and makeup for your session

Photos require slightly more saturated makeup than your every day look so that you don't become washed out.

Haven't done your hair and makeup consultation with your wedding day stylist yet? It can be a smart move to schedule that consult the morning before your session to knock out two birds with one makeup brush!

03 Make the session yours

Before heading to any old park for your session take a moment to think about somewhere with a bit more meaning to your relationship.

If you relish making coffee together and snuggling on the couch with some good ol' Netflix, maybe an at-home session is right for you. Are you an adventurous couple who spends your weekends hiking? Take your photos in the forest or mountains, hiking gear in tow. Don't be afraid to incorporate your favorite activities like riding bikes or taking a canoe down to the lake.

04 Getting the best light

You may be familiar with golden hour—the beautiful time of day just before the sun sets. This is when you want to shoot if you're looking for that glorious, golden light in your photos. It's important to be aware of when the sun is going to set—you can use your weather app to find this out—so that you have plenty of time to shoot before the light is gone.

WEDDINGDAY

advice for a stress-free, relaxed wedding day

01 Your timeline matters

Timelines are one of the most efficient tools that we have at making sure your wedding is stress free. I always have a timeline call with my couples about a month before the wedding day. It helps us ensure that adequate time has been given to each part of the day and gives me a chance to answer any last minute questions for you.

02 Don't forget to eat

Wedding days are so busy, that sometimes food and water get forgotten. It is important to stay hydrated and fed so that you're ready for the day ahead!

03 Have a "go-to" person

Choose your MOH or someone other than a parent to partner with me on your wedding day. They will be able to help me corral the right people and take stress off your shoulders.

04 Practice your bustle

I've found that on wedding days it can take several minutes to bustle up your dress. Having your bridal party practice a bit before your wedding day can greatly speed up that process.

05 Getting ready room

When choosing a venue you'll want to make sure that the room you'll be getting ready in fits your vision.

Having window light, pastel wall colors, and decor that is attractive will help add to your gallery.

06 Don't be afraid to kiss

During your first kiss, or kisses during portrait sessions don't be afraid to hold it for a bit longer. You're going to want to make sure that I am able to capture your first kiss and giving me an extra couple of seconds makes sure I can get the shot from a couple of different angles.
